There's More Paper, Too, From High in Skyscrapers Work Suspends

New York, May 8 (AP)—New York city let go with a roar of bells and whistles within seconds after President Truman's announcement of Germany's surrender.

Boat whistles, automobile horns and trolley bells provided the over-tone. Paper and ticker tape again was thrown from office buildings as on the occasion of the celebration yesterday when the Associated Press reported Nazi capitulation.

Early in the morning, crowds gathered around automobile radios and loudspeakers set up in mid-town streets.

Windows were thrown open in the financial district. Rockefeller Center and other sections as workers leaned out to watch the celebration. A group of women in the Center went to a window ledge and began to sing. Others cheered.

Churches throughout the city held special services.

The streets filled quickly and work was suspended for a time after the President's talk.

Several airplanes dived over Manhattan's skyscrapers, adding to the spirit of the day.

Times Square, where 500,000 persons yesterday staged an exuberant celebration, was relatively quiet. Police estimated 10,000 persons lined the sidewalks when President Truman spoke.

In the garment and fur districts, thousands of workers ran from buildings into the streets, singing, dancing and shouting.

Department stores and many other shops throughout Manhattan closed for the day. Banks remained open. The New York Stock Exchange observed two minutes of silence at the market opening.

New York University and City College of New York suspended classes. Public schools remained open and scheduled special assemblies.

leader if they see fit. He said he would stay at his post if it was required of him, but he would not remain one hour more than can be reconciled with the dignity of the Reich.

Churchill said hostilities would cease at 12:01 a. m. May 9, (6:01 p. m., Eastern War Time, today), and the unconditional surrender will be "ratified and confirmed at Berlin."

Gen. de Gaulle told the French people "the war is won" and the "victory of the Allied Nations is the victory of France."

Supreme headquarters dispatches made it clear the surrender was to all the Allies, but the Moscow radio was silent even after Truman and Churchill had spoken.

There had been general expectation that Stalin would speak simultaneously.

However, the Romanian radio, as heard by the U. S. Federal Communications Commission, quoted an official Russian news agency dispatch as saying the surrender was an accomplished fact and that Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky probably would sign it in Berlin in behalf of Russia.

Pleas for Mercy

Reims, France, May 7 (Delayed AP)—Through an iron faced Prussian general, speaking after he had finished signing the unconditional surrender of the Nazis, Germany pleaded today for mercy for the German people. On the wall behind his back was a huge chart tabulating Allied casualties.

He was Col. Gen. Gustaf Jodl, chief of the staff of the German army.

He was standing in a room of a red schoolhouse in Reims, where Gen. Eisenhower had his advanced headquarters. On a big wooden table in front of him lay four identical documents to which he had just affixed his signature.

There was one each for the United States, Britain, France and Russia. Each bore the words first written by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca: "Unconditional surrender."

Seventeen correspondents including Edward Kennedy of the Associated Press were present at the signing and heard Jodl's plea. After he had signed the four instruments of surrender and after the military representatives of the four powers had signed them, Jodl asked for permission to speak.

He was told he might.

He held himself stiffly erect, conforming to the traditions of Prussian military correctness. His voice was low and soft and he said:

"With this signature, the German people and armed forces are, for better or worse, delivered into the victors' hands."

"In this war which has lasted more than five years, both have achieved and suffered more than perhaps any other people in the world. In this hour, I can only express the hope that the victors will treat generously with them."

Face Is Expressionless

His face was expressionless and so were the faces of the American, British, Russian and French generals who represented the Allies.

All had seen German murder camps and all knew the furious cruelty of German occupying forces.

Jodl finished speaking and sat down. The sound of his voice was quickly absorbed by the walls, board covering the room's walls.

A moment passed in dead silence and then the German representatives were taken down the hall to meet Gen. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower and his deputy, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, were waiting. They stood behind Eisenhower's small desk.

Jodl entered first, followed by Gen. Admiral Hans Georg Friedeburg and then by Col. Foleck, a supply expert.

Foleck glanced once at the Allied officers and then studied the floor. Friedeburg looked out the windows. Only Jodl, his bald head gleaming beneath naked electric light bulbs, looked the American and British commanders in the face.

27 Millions in Battle

Washington, May 8 (AP)—V-V Day ends six years of titanic combat involving all told as many as 27,000,000 men. The War Department estimated today that the Allies at their peak of supremacy had 16,100,000 men under arms, including 600,000 underground fighters. They broke it down this way: Americans 4,000,000; Russian 10,000,000; British 1,000,000 (including continental air forces); French 500,000; underground 600,000 of which about 300,000 were French forces of the interior.

Dr. MacCracken At Lions Dinner

DR. H. N. MACCRACKEN

The Kingston Lions Club announced today that Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, will deliver the principal address at the dinner being tendered by the Lions in honor of Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb on Tuesday evening, May 22, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

At this dinner, the Lions Club will present to Dr. Holcomb a bronze plaque the second annual achievement award to be presented to a Kingstonian.

Dr. MacCracken was invited to be the speaker of the evening because of his years of service to educational and civic projects. Like Dr. Holcomb, Dr. MacCracken has been actively identified with the leadership of public health, Red Cross, and numerous other activities of local, national and international scope, in addition to his work as leadership and administrative head of Vassar College.

Dr. MacCracken has been president of Vassar College since 1915. An authority on medieval and Elizabethan literature, he regularly teaches a course in one of these fields.

He was the first chairman of the Poughkeepsie Community Chest and headed the city's first War Chest campaign. He was also the organizer and president for eight years of the first county public health organization in the United States at the Dutchess County Health Association, which aided in developing Lincoln Center, a Poughkeepsie community house at which successive generations of Vassar students are volunteer workers.

During the first World War Dr. MacCracken was the chief agent in the organization of the Junior Red Cross and served as its first director, enrolling a membership of eleven million.

At present he is president of the Kosciuszko Foundation, formed in 1925 for the promotion of cultural relations with Poland; a member of the Board of the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences in America; chairman of the joint Commission on Educational Program of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the Bureau of Intercultural Education; and a trustee of Penn Normal School for Negro agricultural and industrial workers. He is a former trustee of Sarah Lawrence College and Bennett Junior College.

In collaboration with Associate Professor Charles Gordon Post of the Vassar Department of Political Science, Dr. MacCracken is the author of "Invitation to Freedom," a discussion of the Bill of Rights and its meaning to young Americans which has been adopted by many New York State and New England schools as a civics handbook. Earlier he was the author of "John the Common Weal," a series of lectures on social work, and he edited the works of Chaucer, Shakespeare and the medieval monk, John Lydgate.

Dr. MacCracken was graduated from New York University in 1900 and, after spending three years in Turkey as instructor in the Syrian Protestant School there, returned to his alma mater to take his master's degree. He then earned both master's and doctor's degrees from Harvard University and spent a year at Oxford as John Harvard fellow. Before being elected president of Vassar, he taught English at the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University and at Smith College. He holds honorary degrees conferred on him by Smith, Brown University and New York University.

Dr. MacCracken is a staunch advocate of liberal arts education as fundamental to a real democratic society.

A very fine musical program is being arranged by the Lions Club which will also be a part of the evening's program. Details of the musical program will be announced later.

High School Holds Victory Assembly Program Today

In a special victory assembly, this morning, Kingston High School students heard the announcement of President Truman, announcing the cessation of hostilities in Europe, and took part in a column program.

Under the direction of Anthony Messina, the school band played several selections, among them "The Lord's Prayer" and "American Patrol."

In opening the assembly, Principal Clarence Dunn reminded the students that the occasion called for solemnity and not riotous rejoicing. Prayers were read by two students, Charlotte Katz and Hane Shaughtress.

A. J. Laflair, superintendent of schools, in his address to the assembly told the students that there are trying days ahead, with America still engaged in a bitter war against the Japanese.

Spirit of "America" concluded the program.

Kingston-Port Ewen Bridge Builder Dies

Some account of Holton D. Robinson, characterized as "one of the world's foremost bridge designers and builders," who died Monday at his home in the Bronx, aged 82, says that "Across the Hudson at Kingston, N. Y., he built the first bridge to carry a concrete floor."

A specialist in suspension bridges, Mr. Robinson was a consultant on the Triborough and George Washington bridges, the Bear Mountain bridge, the Mid-Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie, and others.

He prepared the suspension designs for the $20,000,000 Sydney Harbour Bridge in Australia and many of his suggestions were incorporated into the bridge across the Rhine at Cologne.

relentlessly forward on the stubbornly-contested southern Okinawa front today. Flame-throwing tanks were burning the way.

In five weeks of fighting the Yanks have killed 36,535 Japanese. American losses up to last Thursday were 2,337 killed, 11,432 wounded and 514 missing. At this ratio 15 Japanese were killed for every American.

Infantrymen of the 77th Division, scaling precipitous heights with wooden ladders and ship cargo nets, took a high escarpment near the center of the line in a 400-yard advance yesterday. They began clearing the southern slope in a downhill drive toward Shuri, second city of Okinawa, about a mile away.

Nearby on the west the First Marine Division gained about 300 yards to the outskirts of Dakeshi village. The Seventh Infantry Division on the east coast advanced an equal distance but ran into considerable machinegun and small arms fire near Gafa village.

Heavy guns of naval vessels co-operated with carrier and land-based planes in blasting enemy positions.

A few Japanese planes were over the Okinawa area yesterday but no damage was reported. American aircraft, however, ranged deep into Japanese home waters. Naval planes sank or damaged nine good-sized freighters and tankers off Korea and three coastal cargo ships south of Honshu.

Cattle Show at Cornell, Woodstock Cows in It

Thence, May 7—After two years' absence, the Northeastern Aberdeen-Angus cattle show and sale is returning to Cornell University where the event made its first appearance nine years ago. In the two-year interim, due to the war it was held at Rhinebeck.

Sixty-four lots of cattle—6 bulls and 58 females have been consigned to this year's event, scheduled for Saturday, May 13, in the livestock pavilion of the College of Agriculture.

There are 20 consignors listed, including Cannon's Ranch of Woodstock.

The show starts at 9:30 a. m., judging will be held throughout the morning, with the sale scheduled to start at 12:30 p. m. Part of the event will be broadcast from 12:30 to 1 p. m. over the Cornell station WICU at Ithaca and WGY at Schenectady.

With interest in beef cattle at a high level, due to the current meat shortage, attendance at this year's event is expected to reach a high mark, according to Professor Miller, who is in charge of beef cattle feeding experiments at Cornell. One of the things learned in this research is that beef of good eating quality can be produced from good eastern pastures, although better beef is produced when grains are also fed.

Only Four Serving Time At Ulster County Jail

The roster at the county jail showed this morning that four persons serving time, one of these being a woman. As a result there were no "trusties" available for the usual janitor work around the court house.

This may account for the rather unusual sight this morning of two of Sheriff Smith's official staff showing a mover on the court house lawn.

National Hospital Day

Saturday, May 12, will be observed as National Hospital Day in Kingston. The three hospitals, Kingston, Benedictine and T. B. will hold open house so that the residents of the city may have an opportunity to visit these institutions.

Child Plan Assailed

Australia's plan to spend $101,000,000 on 17,000 child migrants after the war is labeled "bureaucratic misjudgment" by Dr. M. Fenner, education director, in a report to the government at Melbourne. This sum, he declared, could be used to induce Australians to produce 17,000 more children.

May Morning Interference
No breakfast dishes have been washed; I haven't made the bed; I'm strolling down my garden paths, admiring blooms instead. There's dust upon the furniture. I'm sure the floors aren't clean. Enthralled, I pick another bud—the rarest one I've seen.

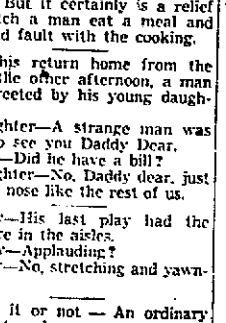

If I were prompt in household work, my moments would be few. In which to see the morning blooms, all shimmering with dew. I've always tried to figure out why of untemper household duties. Appear at hours when gardens hold their most entrancing beauties.

Big Three Might Meet to Consider Affairs of Europe

security system. This is that the powers should take separate but parallel measures to make sure that for the next half century or so Germany will be denied the resources and industrial development necessary to plunge the world into another war.

One possible step understood to have received some consideration from high officials is a treaty among the victor nations specifically pledging them to stand ready to take up arms against Germany.

The United States may lead in working out such a pact, which is regarded in American quarters as being in line with a plan put forward by Senator Vandenberg (R, Mich.) several months ago for a long-time alliance against Germany.

Whether there will be a general peace conference within the next two or three years is an open question among American and other diplomats here at the moment. Such a conference would deal with territorial settlements in Europe and elsewhere in the world, if it is held after the Pacific war has ended.

The same decisions might be made, however, by a series of lesser meetings.

One problem confronting the Big Three is that of German reparations. The late President Roosevelt agreed with Stalin and Churchill at the Yalta Conference in February that reparations should be made in machinery and goods. A reparations commission was set up to work at Moscow but so far has reported accomplishing nothing.

Yet the process of completely wrecking Germany's war-making industries, which was also agreed on at Yalta and which is expected to be undertaken without delay by Allied occupation armies, will release a considerable amount of machinery which may be taken by the European Allies as reparations. Russian and French demands for German labor to rebuild devastated cities also are yet to be worked into formal agreements. The subject was brought up but not settled at Yalta.

Peace Job Ahead of World War I

Despite these open questions American authorities consider that the job of restoring peace is far ahead of what it was at the close of the last war.

The Versailles Conference was held a year after the 1918 armistice. This time the enemy's unconditional surrender means there is no armistice period, and the fact the San Francisco Conference already underway means that a world league can start functioning in about a year. Thus the problem of organizing for peace has been separated from the tasks of liquidating the war and rushed a full year ahead of the World War I schedule.

There is also some hope among Americans, British and other officials here that a Big Three meeting could speed a final settlement of the Polish situation to remove the most disruptive single element in Anglo-American-Russian relations. All hope of ironing out this difficulty in foreign ministers meetings at San Francisco appears to have vanished.

Foreign Commissar Molotov is expected to leave here for Moscow shortly. British Foreign Minister Eden may leave within a week, although his plans are described as indefinite. Secretary Stettinius has announced he will remain throughout the conference, although development of unexpected problems in Washington might require his presence there for a short time.

Prisoners Are Notified

Washington, May 8 (AP)—German prisoners of war in the United States were notified today that the Reich had surrendered unconditionally. The War Department distributed proclamations for posting on all bulletin boards in the P.O.W. camps which now hold 343,000 Germans.

O.P.A. Approves Plan To Pool Truck Business

Approximately 20,000 miles and 3,500 man hours will be saved annually through a joint action plan for coordinated operations by two common carriers, New York & Albany Dispatch Co. of New York and McARDLE & CASAZZA Trucking Co., Inc., of Albany, between points in New York state. The Office of Defense Transportation has approved the plan. District Manager A. C. Dunn of O.D.T.'s Highway Transport Department announced today.

Purpose of the plan is to eliminate operation of partially loaded trips and paralleling and duplication of service. It will permit New York & Albany Dispatch to eliminate one or two trucks which operated daily in certain territory to be suspended, Mr. Dunn said. He added that it will effect a substantial saving of equipment, tires and gasoline, and will also improve the service.

workers at Hercules Powder Co., the Island Dock, Inc., and the C. Hiltchman Dry Dock Co., working as usual at their war production tasks, while at Electro-Incorporated work was suspended at 9 o'clock this morning and the night shift will not work tonight. This was information gathered from officials of the various plants.

At Hercules Powder plant exercises were held at noon when the Rev. Michael Curley of the Church of the Presentation of Port Ewen and the Rev. W. Wesley Williams, officiated and Superintendent Edmund P. Rochford delivered a brief message to the employees urging them to continue to work until Japan is defeated.

At Island Dock the employees took time off to hear the radio address by President Truman and Churchill and then returned to their jobs.

Stores Close for Hour
Following the proclamation of President Harry S. Truman this morning, Paul A. Zucca, president of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association said all stores in the uptown area would close officially for an hour as determined by vote at the last meeting of the association. This agreement had been arrived at in order that clerks and employees who desired to attend church might have the opportunity.

Several store proprietors said they would close for an hour, but if V-E Day proved to be one for celebration and shoppers failed to appear later in the day they would close their stores for the day.

All stores closed following the announcement of V-E Day and clerks immediately left. The proclamation at 9 o'clock in the morning came prior to the opening hour for many places of business and clerks in many instances had not reported for work.

Court Does Not Meet
With the official proclamation of peace in Europe this morning Justice Harry E. Schirick announced that Supreme Court would not meet today and jurors summoned for 11 o'clock today were to be instructed to report on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock when the term will be continued.

Yesterday afternoon an extra panel of 50 trial jurors was summoned after most of the original panel sought to be excused.

The first local society of the Red Cross in America was organized at a Lutheran church in Danville, N. Y., in 1881.

This may sound like an old superstition, but it is all too true. # Truman Avoids Any V-E Day Proclamation

Washington, May 8 (AP)—In announcing victory in Europe, President Truman today carefully avoided any use of the popular term "V-E Day" and White House sources later made it clear that for the United States no formal V-E Day was proclaimed.

Instead the President — in keeping with his announced wish that the European victory should not be made the occasion for unrestrained celebration—set aside next Sunday as "a day of prayer." This will be May 13, Mother's Day.

Mr. Truman called upon the people on that day "whatever their faith, to unite in offering joyful thanks to God for the victory we have won and to pray that he will support us to the end of our present struggle and guide us into the way of peace."

GERMANY'S OUT... BUT JAPAN'S STILL THERE!

We're all happy, of course, that it's over in Europe... but we're not through fighting yet. The Japs are still killing... and right now while we're celebrating the defeat of Germany, many of our men are dying and suffering on disease-ridden tropical islands. The Jap is no soft antagonist... and it's going to take a lot of grit to beat him. So, let's celebrate the fall of Germany... but let's do it right and give our men and women out there an encouraging handclasp. Let them know that we're striving to bring them home soon too. The only celebration we can afford now is to buy another WAR BOND.

But our men are still fighting and dying out there in the Pacific. If we let down now, we'll be letting them down!
